Dear Technical Director

This letter is to express my interest in bringing my years of expertise in programming to your established business.

I am seeking a win-win atmosphere with room for growth. I want to continue to learn and grow professionally while contributing to the dynamic growth of your company. By doing this, I will build an exceptional and satisfying career. I have a passion for not only technology but success which drives me to set goals and achieve results as a member of a team or independently. I have developed excellent communication and interpersonal skills combined with great organizational abilities.

In addition to the above experiences I can also offer your company:

- Effective communication with internal staff
- The will to handle multiple tasks simultaneously
- Strong Java and C++ coding
- Perform coding, unit testing and software documentation
- Project Management integrity
- Advanced computer trouble-shooting operations and skills
- Strong knowledge in Object Oriented development methodology
- Strong analytical and problem solving skills
- Design / implementation of software
- Web design {HTML/CSS/PHP/Javascript/jQuery/AJAX}
- MySQL Database administration {phpMyAdmin, Sequelpro}
- Software/hardware Technical Support
- IT/Helpdesk
- Hard Drive encryption and backup procedures

My salary history was given to me because of my effort, expertise and knowledge but mostly hard work, late hours and will to learn and become great at performing task assessed. I am worth what I deserve and can be expected to provide hard work and well character. My salary ambition currently is $50,000 and my salary history includes:

- Nerjyzed Entertainment $45,000 {Game Design}
- Productive Electronics $35,000 {IT/Technical Support}

With your company in need of a task driven individual, my extensive experience and history can help meet those needs. My previous job carried all responsibilities shown and indeed I look to give my all for your company.

I will prove to be an asset to your company, I am highly energetic, dependable, self-motivated, devoted, I love a challenge and most importantly in this industry I am a team player. I thank you in advance for your consideration.

Best Regards,
Christopher Ramsey
